

Angles

Compiled from SU News and Publications reports

renaissance SPIRIT

All Day Meetin'—Dinner on the Ground (1934) by Malvin Gray Johnson was one of the featured works in Spirit of the Renaissance: The Art of William H. Johnson and Malvin Gray Johnson, a recent exhibition at the Community Folk Art Gallery. The paintings were on loan from the Hampton University Museum.

administrative CHANGES

The University's administrative face will change somewhat this year: College of Arts and Sciences Dean Robert G. Jensen and College of Nursing Interim Dean Cecilia Mulvey are retiring and being replaced by interim deans. In addition, the retirement last year of Thomas F. Cummings, former vice president for enrollment and continuing education, led to promotions for long-time admissions administrators David C. Smith and Susan E. Donovan.

Smith, who had served as dean of admissions and financial aid since 1985, was appointed vice president for enrollment management. Donovan, who had been associate dean of admissions and financial aid and director of admissions since 1992, was named dean of admissions.

Jensen will retire July 1 after 36 years with SU. He was appointed dean of arts and sciences in July 1994, after a year as interim dean. He previously served as dean (1990-

93) and interim dean of the Graduate School (1989). He joined SU as an assistant geography professor in 1964, moving on to become an associate professor in 1969 and a full professor in 1974. He served as chair of the geography department from 1973 to 1990, and director of SU's Soviet and East European Studies Program from 1968 to 1975.

Cathryn Newton, professor and chair of the Department of Earth Sciences, will serve as interim dean of the college while a national search is conducted.

Mulvey, who came out of retirement to be interim dean in 1998 when Dean Grace Chickadonz resigned to begin a study leave, will be replaced by Kay Wiggins G'83. Wiggins, who had retired from SU in 1995 after serving on the nursing faculty since 1964, will guide the College of Nursing until its merger with the School of Social Work and College for Human Development is completed.

lacrosse DYNASTY

Add another crown to the SU men's lacrosse dynasty. The Orangemen collected their seventh NCAA Division I title with a 13-7 victory against Princeton on Memorial Day in College Park, Maryland. It was SU's first championship since 1995 and the first for second-year head coach John Desko '79.

Sophomore Liam Banks was voted the tournament's most outstanding player following a six-goal, one-assist performance in the final. Senior Ryan Powell scored three goals and two assists. Powell's final assist, with 18 seconds left in the game, gave him 287 career points to tie his older brother Casey '98 as SU's all-time leading scorer.

The Orangemen, who have now played in 18 straight NCAA Final Fours, completed the season with a 15-1 record. They placed 10 players on the All-America team, including Powell and senior Marshall Abrams, who were named to the first team.

batter UP

This spring marked the inaugural season of the Syracuse University women's softball team. "Building a program from the ground up involves finding the right pieces and fitting them together to make a unit," says head coach Mary Jo Firnbach. "It is a complex puzzle and every piece is just as important as the other."

The Orangewomen registered their first win with a 6-2 victory against Louisiana Tech at the University of Louisiana at Monroe's Mardi Gras Classic in February. Tara DiMaggio '03 was the winning pitcher. DiMaggio, who finished the season with a 14-11 record, threw a no-hitter in an 11-0 win against Buffalo on April 25.

The Orangewomen, who played their home games at the new Softball Stadium at Skytop, finished with a record of 24-23-1.

su INTERNATIONAL

Syracuse University ranks in the top third among research institutions in the United States for the number of international students registered on campus, according to a report from the Institute of International Education (IIE).

In the 1998-99 edition of Open Doors, IIE's annual report on international students attending U.S. colleges and universities and Americans studying abroad, SU ranked 44th in international student enrollment among 125 higher education institutions enrolling 1,000 or more international students. In a separate ranking of international students attending the nation's 125 research institutions, SU placed 38th. The University also ranked 14th among U.S. research institutions for its study-abroad participation rate.

During the 1998-99 academic year, 1,897 international students were enrolled at SU and 731 students were studying overseas through the Division of International Programs Abroad.

The 1998-99 rankings mark an improvement for SU, which in the 1997-98 academic year ranked 51st among colleges and universities enrolling 1,000 or more international students.

mike pinco

top PROFESSORS

Four professors have been cited by the University for their outstanding contributions to research and teaching. Professor Shobha Bhatia, chair of the civil and environmental engineering department in the L.C. Smith College of Engineering and Computer Science, and psychology professor Larry Lewandowski of the College of Arts and Sciences were selected as the 2000 Laura J. and L. Douglas Meredith Professors of Teaching Excellence for their outstanding classroom efforts, while Professor Laurence Nafie, chair of the chemistry department in the College of Arts and Sciences, and chemistry professor John Baldwin were named SU Distinguished Professors for their innovative research.

Nafie's research accomplishments span 30 years and focus on the development of vibrational spectroscopy. Baldwin, a physical organic chemist, has earned high praise and recognition for his work in chemical bonding.

domestic DIVA

steve sartori

Martha Stewart, who turned domestic chores and crafts into a high-art form and, more importantly, a highly lucrative corporate venture, seems to be everywhere these days, including Syracuse University. Stewart, who recently took her well-known namesake empire public, spoke to a packed house in the Schine Student Center's Goldstein Auditorium as part of the College for Human Development's Genet Lecture Series. Her topic: "The Power of a Single Idea."

parting ADVICE

If anyone has insights on the world to share with graduating students, it's acclaimed broadcaster Ted Koppel '60, who's dissected major news events for nearly four decades.

Koppel, anchor and managing editor of the ABC-TV late-night news show Nightline, delivered the 2000 Commencement address for SU and the State University of New York College of Environmental Science and Forestry in the Carrier Dome.

It wasn't Koppel's first time at the SU commencement lectern either—the graduate of SU's School of Speech and Dramatic Art also spoke to the Class of 1982.

progress REPORT

Tuition and Required Fees—First-Year Undergraduates
SU Compared to Private Competitors

*Competitor peer institutions for this chart are Boston University, Cornell University, New York University, Boston College, and Ithaca College, which are the private institutions where SU student prospects most often had SAT scores dually reported.

Undergraduate Tuition Discount
Full-Time Main Campus Undergraduates

